FOREWORD

LAW enforcement executives have long expressed the need for a reference book giving the names and titles of law enforcement officials of other jurisdictions, with whom they need to communicate in the conduct of their business.

During recent years, as crime has taken on complex, interstate characteristics, coordination of police and other law enforcement efforts has become imperative. The exchange of information and the maintenance of communication with other agencies are important features of the daily operation of any law enforcement agency—city, county, state, provincial, or national.

As a result of the suggestion that the International Association of Chiefs of Police compile and publish an authoritative directory of law enforcement agencies and officials, the members were canvassed to determine their wishes in the matter. Response was virtually unanimous that the Association should publish such a directory and that their respective departments would purchase and use copies in their daily work. This Blue Book is the result.

Great pains have been taken to obtain accuracy. Thousands of letters and questionnaires have been sent out. It is obvious, however, that with changes made almost every day in the status of police officials, a few inaccuracies will be found. Moreover, it has been impossible to secure data from a few jurisdictions.

The International Association of Chiefs of Police plans to keep the directory up to date, and will be glad to receive information concerning changes of status that should be made. The Police Chiefs' News Letter will carry notices of new appointments of police executives, so that individual police departments can make corrections monthly in their copies of the Blue Book. When the changes have reached sufficient volume, the preparation of a new edition of the directory will be given consideration.

WILLIAM P. RUTLEDGE, Executive Vice President
International Association of Chiefs of Police

SAFETY

a prime consideration

General Motors engineers have always given safety prime consideration. Consequently, the new General Motors cars for 1939 are as safe to drive and to ride in as modern science, research and engineering can make them. They embody such advanced safety features as Unisteel Turret Top Body by Fisher—super-hydraulic brakes—Fisher No Draft Ventilation—Knee-Action wheels—easier steering, greater visibility—and many other factors that contribute toward safeguarding life and property. You must see, examine and drive one of these new General Motors cars to have a full appreciation of all its advanced safety features.

All the safety that General Motors can build into a car is ineffective against poor or careless driving. General Motors has published a discussion on safe driving entitled "We Drivers." You may have a copy merely by writing Department of Public Relations, General Motors, Detroit, Michigan.

POLICE CHOOSE CHRYSLER CORPORATION PRODUCTS

Chrysler Corporation is proud of the fact that since its inception many Police Departments, Policemen, and their families have been among the six million purchasers of Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto, and Chrysler passenger cars and trucks.

We are told that, among other reasons, these people have chosen Chrysler-built vehicles because of their ease of handling, their extreme safety, their very low operating cost, and their ability to "stand up" under the most trying conditions.

Such acceptance of our products is happy vindication for the many dollars which we have invested in our research laboratories, experimental equipment, special testing devices, and of the hours spent on the problems of longer car-life, more exacting performance, and lower operating costs, which are behind each of our products.

When you have future transportation needs, call on any of our Plymouth, Chrysler, De Soto or Dodge dealers. You will find them anxious to demonstrate to you that Chrysler Corporation's passenger cars and trucks, vehicles for every need and in every price class, are designed for the most exacting performance which you may require.
